PALAU, MOROTAI NEAR PHILIPPINES INVADED

Americans Piercing Siegfried Line Register 10-Mile Gain

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

THE GREAT TEAM of MacArthur, Nimitz & Co., at last has got itself set for invasion of the Philippines by its occupation of strategic islands in the Palau and Morotai (sometimes called Halmahera) groups—an event for which readers of this column were invited six days ago to watch.

The powerfully fortified Palau island, which have been successfully invaded by Marines and assault forces from Adm. Nimitz's command, have been the main Japanese field for the eastern approach to the Philippines. They are only 300 miles from Davao, chief city of Mindanao, P. I.

MacArthur's amphibious troops landed on the little island of Morotai, only 300 miles south of Mindanao. Morotai is the northernmost of the Molucca Islands, and in selecting this spot MacArthur again tricked the Japanese. They had looked for a landing on Halmahera, the principal island, but the general sailed right by and hit where he wasn't expected.

The operations were continuing at latest reports, but both commanders expressed confidence in the outcome. MacArthur, who landed with his men, told them in a beachhead talk:

"You now dominate the last stronghold which barred you from the Philippines. Our campaign is entering upon its decisive stage."

When these two grand bases are fully established we shall be able to hit at the Japanese in the Philippines from close range, both by air and by sea. No wonder the Japanese are predicting a landing soon in Mindanao.

On the whole Nimitz and MacArthur have presented the Roosevelt-Churchill conference in an appropriate and a highly significant way. Here it was noted that the British people "never forget the score they owe to the United States," and are "resolved to see this through to the end with all the strength and decision that is in them."

That is the meaning of this "Quarter conference," she emphasized. Mrs. Churchill's statement presumably was calculated to dispel

ASSAULT MADE BY SOLDIERS AND MARINES

U. S. Amphibious Forces Land Under Protective Fire of Ships

By CHARLES H. MCURTREY
U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Sept. 15—American assault forces converging on the Philippines from the south and east landed on the fortress-like Palau islands and Morotai today (Manila time) on the heels of the most crushing aerial bombardment the island Archipelago ever received.

Marines and army assault forces from Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, Central Pacific command landed on unnamed islands of the Palau group, 600 miles east of Mindanao island in the Philippines, while Gen. Douglas MacArthur's landing troops made a surprise landing on Morotai, 300 miles south of Mindanao.

Both commanders, now operating their forces as a coordinated team squeezing Japan's prize conquest of the Pacific war, announced the invasions a few hours after they were accomplished, indicating initial success and confidence in the outcome.

Japan's ability to send immediate aid to the invaded islands was knocked out by the crushing aerial battle of the Philippines which in four days of U. S. carrier plane attacks wiped out 561 Japanese planes and 173 surface craft.

"Everything in the books," Seaboard aircraft had severely returned to their flatpots when Adm. William F. Halsey's brilliant Third Fleet opened up a terrific barrage on Palau with everything in the book, including rockets and the big guns of America's newest and most heavily armed battleships.

"Enemy defenses are being heavily bombed and shelled at close range," Adm. Nimitz announced nine hours after assault forces splashed ashore against the strongly defended, reef-encircled islands. "Landings are continuing against stiff ground opposition," he said, indicating that beachheads had been hacked out on one of the most powerful outposts of the Japanese empire.

His original announcement gave no further details of the amphibious

WITH THE 37TH INFANTRY DIVISION. Somewhere in the Southwest Pacific Area—After viewing the effects of his field artillery battalion's devastating fire on Japanese positions, Pvt. Randall L. Todd of Salem, O., said today: "I don't see how any of them came out alive."

A cannoner on a 105mm howitzer, Todd contributed his share in the greatest artillery barrage of South Pacific history.

"When the Japs attacked, our infantry asked for all it could get. We gave it to them," he said. "Our guns fired five times faster than the book calls for. I could believe that when I saw the area we blasted."

Todd saw action in New Georgia and Bougainville, and his 28 months of overseas service includes stations in New Zealand, the Fiji Islands, and Guadalcanal.

SURVEY LOSS IN HURRICANE

Storm Rips Into New England; 16 Are Known Dead; Damage High

A West Indian hurricane leaving a trail of destruction from North Carolina to Massachusetts blew out to sea off southern Maine early this morning.

Sixteen deaths were attributed to the storm along nearly 1,000 miles of the Atlantic coast. Winds of 80 to 100 miles an hour lashed blinding rains, ripped buildings, tore down power and telephone lines and uprooted thousands of trees.

The storm on Long Island and in New England was exceeded in violence only by the devastating hurricane of Sept. 21, 1938, which battered the same area, taking more than 600 lives and causing damage estimated at $500,000,000.

Atlantic City and neighboring New Jersey coastal resorts appeared to have suffered the greatest damage. Mountainous waves struck the boardwalk sections of these cities while a 90-mile wind tore off roofs of some apartment houses and damaged other dwellings, leaving hundreds homeless.

Long Island, southeastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island also bore the full brunt of the gale, but its force was not as great as had been anticipated.

A majority of the smaller towns of Long Island were without light and power after the storm; communications and transportation were almost completely disrupted.

The New York City area and Connecticut escaped with comparatively little damage, although seven of the recorded deaths were in Greater New York.

The storm wind reached a record of 95 miles an hour in New York and Boston reported a wind velocity of 98 miles an hour.

In states all along the coast, state guards, civilian defense and Red Cross disaster workers were mobilized before the storm struck. Ample warnings from the weather bureau made possible the evacuation of hundreds of seaside resort communities.

UMW Action Condemns Roosevelt After Half-Hour Debate

(By Associated Press)
CINCINNATI, Sept. 15.—The United Mine Workers' convention adopted today a resolutions committee report condemning President Roosevelt and praising Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York after scarcely a half hour's debate. The resolution was put in so many words endorse the Republican presidential nominee.

President John L. Lewis himself suggested the termination of debate after seven delegates had discussed the resolution, five in praise of President Roosevelt and two opposing him.

Lewis said "it is apparent the convention is not talking on the question. It is wasting time."

A motion was put to the delegates on a voice vote. The response appeared at least to be close. Lewis declared the motion closing debate carried.

The miners' president then called for a standing vote on the adoption of the resolution. Those who stood in its support far outnumbered the opponents, whose numbers appeared to range from 300 to 500 among the more than 2,500 delegates in the convention hall.

Lewis declared the resolution "overwhelmingly adopted," and moved onto another committee report.

The adopted resolution said that only once in UMW history had a convention endorsed a presidential candidate and that was President Roosevelt in 1936.

"Subsequent events," the resolution added, "have demonstrated that the confidence thus expressed was ill-bestowed."

The resolution listed a series of alleged offenses to organized labor by the Roosevelt administration, particularly against the UMW, adding that "the administration's aim was to destroy the UMW by subtle attacking its leadership, which is again evidenced by the fact that

CITIES OF NANCY, MAASTRICHT FALL; ADVANCE NORTH OF TRIER

BULLETIN
IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE, Sept. 15.—6:40 P. M.—Slashing through the first belt of the Siegfried fortifications, American troops drove today ten miles into Germany, north of the ancient city of Trier.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The cities of Nancy and Maastricht, strongholds at opposite ends of a 180-mile front, fell today to the battering offensive of American armies which had driven with shattering force into the depths of the Siegfried line at three places.

Nancy, a famed French bastion of 121,000 on the banks of the Meurthe in a crook below the Moselle, fell in the southern onslaught of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army at 11 a. m. (5 a. m. Eastern War time.)

Maastricht, Netherlands city guarding the Meuse canal where the Germans made their fateful crossing into Belgium in 1940, fell during fierce penetrations of German defenses north of half-encircled Aachen, the German high command announced.

Nancy, 14th city of France and historic scene of French resistance both in ancient times and in the first World War, is 68 miles from the Strasbourg crossing of the Rhine.

The Germans, who had reported the jaws of an iron vise closing upon the city, withdrew during the night and fired scarcely a shot as an American general led the way in a jeep into the heart of the wildly celebrating city.

A force of Lt. Gen. Hodges' U. S. First army, which crossed the frontier of the Dutch province of Limburg yesterday, was said by the Germans to have advanced to a point near Valkenburg, 12 miles northeast of Aachen, in the course of the sweep through Maastricht, a city of 67,000.

Aachen, under artillery fire from the Americans who had advanced to points within a mile of the city from the south and southeast, was threatened with an encirclement.

Drive Powerful Wedges
South of Aachen, vital citadel two miles inside the German frontier, the Germans admitted the Americans had driven powerful armored forces into wedges in the "glacis" or face of the Siegfried line.

Allied announcements said three penetrations from two to eight miles deep and six to nine miles wide—one of them completely through the first belt of fortifications—had been made in the line toward the Rhine cities of Cologne and Coblenz.

German resistance stiffened along the southern outskirts of the fortress city of Aachen, key to the western approaches to Germany's rich industrial Rhineland, which was shelled and was being bypassed. American units from the south had approached to within a mile of this partly ringed city.

Forty miles to the southeast at the German road-junction town of Prum and 30 miles farther south in the northwest outskirts of Trier the Germans had only rifles and machineguns in a thinly-manned defense zone to pit against the power of American tanks and artillery.

Teachers Busy So School Is Dismissed

Schools throughout the city were dismissed at noon today so that faculty members, now in the midst of preparing "A" gasoline ration for distribution by the ration board, can complete the tremendous job of filling out the new books.

Work was begun on the project Wednesday afternoon and continued through yesterday. In order to get the task completed in time for mailing, more working hours were needed by teachers and consequently, all school children are to enjoy a half day vacation, Supt. E. S. Kerr explained.

Germany's Soil

If theory about bringing home the war to Germans and thereby preventing their future aggression is correct, the lesson has started. Our troops are inside Germany and obviously prepared to go as far as they choose. Britons, Frenchmen, Poles, Dutchmen and nationals of many nations over-run by Germany will be among the invaders. So confident are the military leaders who have brought about this historic move that they now dare to speak openly of Oct. 31 as the "outside date" for collapse of organized resistance in Germany.

It remains to be seen what the ultimate effect of invasion will be, but this is fundamentally true at the outset. The invaders seek no loot, no chance to show condescension or arrogance. They do not invade in a spirit of conquest; they do not covet anything that Germany possesses. Their common aim is not to remain inside Germany, but to leave as soon as possible. The occupation of the country is solely to subdue its militarism. Except for the entirely proper determination to deal harshly with the extremists who have betrayed themselves by brutality abroad, there is not even a spirit of revenge in the occupying armies.

They are on Germany's soil. It is as sacred to Germans as is the soil of France to Frenchmen, of Belgium to Belgians, or Norway to Norwegians. It is as sacred, but no more sacred, than the soil of Russia, Denmark, Poland, the Netherlands and all the vast territories tramped over by German spoilers for centuries.

Among Those Present

Gen. DeGaulle properly argues that since no nation is more interested than France in the future of Germany therefore France should participate fully in discussion and adoption of plans for post-war Europe. Without knowing what may be done about France, many thoughtful Americans will be reminded by the general's bid for attention of someone else who should be among those present while plans for international security are in the making.

There should be adequate representation from the armed services. They were conspicuously absent after World War I, when post-war problems were handled exclusively by politicians. The obviously military problems which the politicians created for future settlement hung fire for a fifth of a century, whereupon they had to be settled again—by military leaders, not politicians.

Americans have no way of knowing who will speak for them in the final settlement of their costly participation in Europe's latest war, but at this moment they would rather be represented by Gen. Eisenhower and Gen. Bradley than the best dozen politicians who might be named. If the idea is to make peace so it will last, perhaps it's time to turn over the job in some part at least to those who must face the consequences if it doesn't last.

Air Power's New Phase

Details of air power's most powerful phase on the western front lag behind routine announcements of its feats. Success in the battle of France has given British and United States airmen operational bases for final action in the battle of Germany which free them for the first time of the handicap of flying from remote bases. Fighter planes will be able to stay in the air longer. Bombers, forced down, will be landed in friendly territory. The uncertain weather conditions over the English Channel will no longer be a decisive factor in air operations. The whole nature of aerial warfare in the final battle will become more favorable to the attack—a circumstance which may account for the reappearance of what is left of the German air force. Allied air power is now at its zenith in Europe.

Meanwhile, in the Pacific, air power continues to spearhead the attack on Japanese strong points. The new long-range bombers have demonstrated power far beyond that brought to bear against Germany by the bomber fleets which already in the swift development of air power have become obsolete. It seems incredible now that as late as the Japanese attack at Pearl Harbor there should have been in the United States a controversy about air power. But it is typical that the controversy was received into the development of aerial superiority so overwhelming that less than three years later it is virtually unchallenged by the two aggressors which controlled the air when war began.

Rendezvous

Another Quebec conference, together with conferences at Casablanca, Cairo, Teheran and Washington, will help sharpen one of the obvious needs for post-war security when conferring will be routine. Statesmen of the future will need a rendezvous. It must be a place where they can come together in an atmosphere free of pressures and jealousies and nationalistic taint. Since Marshal Stalin will not come to Quebec, but has let it be hinted he would like to be host in Moscow; since Prime Minister Churchill apparently cannot be host in London, though President Roosevelt can be host in Washington; and since these three-way difficulties eventually will be multiplied by addition of other statesmen, what the world needs for its security is a Shangri-la where great matters may be decided calmly. But then, of course, if we found one, we wouldn't need statesmen.

Without fear of contradiction we can advise German parents that a lot of their boys are coming home—on the run.

Nothing crushes laurels quicker than resting on them.

The Stars Say

For Saturday, September 16

A VERY interesting chain of lunar transits indicates lively and profitable activities in the direction of placing the future and its fortunes on a sound and enduring basis. It is a time for accepting every possible opening for furthering said prospects, even though there may be certain devastating situations to cope with. There may be sudden and precipitate changes, journeys with complete about-face of old ties, environs and prospects. This should be managed with discrimination, prudence and common sense and not impulses or emotionalism. The private, affectional, as well as business life may be at stake.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves precipitated into a strange exciting, and radical set of circumstances, demanding a complete reversal of the life and its culmination. There are excellent prospects for placing the fortunes on a sound secure basis, in which reason and common sense may prove the determining factors. There are some indications of sudden turns, which must be met with composure and logic and not impulse or emotionalism. With prudence and exceptional talents there might be surprising gain. The romantic, domestic and social as well as intellectual ties should be discreetly handled.

A child born on this day will have much sound reason and sound sense in spite of erratic or emotional urges. Its fine talents should assist to a very progressive and stable place in life.

Taint Funny

By James Thrasher

The stories of P. G. Wodehouse, the English humorist, were delightful within the limits of their set pattern. His Jeeves, the imperturbable gentleman's gentleman, was a gem of literary creation and justly famous. But, as we said, Mr. Wodehouse's humor was limited.

He stepped out from behind his characters, after the Nazis caught him at his French villa in 1940, to broadcast to the home folks back in England. He used the German radio to tell them the lighter side of life in a concentration camp.

Now, left high and dry in Paris, Mr. Wodehouse says it was all a "terrible mistake." He has asked official permission to come back to England and explain.

We doubt that the English will be much interested in the explanation of a man who says "we never suffered during the war and we had enough to eat." We venture to guess that their attitude might be summed up in the words of one of our own radio comedians: "Taint funny, McGee."

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Causes and Cures of Gallstones

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
GALLSTONES is something that might happen to anybody. In fact according to statistics it already has happened to 10 per cent of the population. And if you are selective and refer only to people over forty years of age the proportion is much higher. Some statistics show that in women over sixty, one out of four (25 per cent) have gallstones.

The reasons for this frequency are not far to seek. The gallbladder is one of the bays, or backwaters, of the body. It is a little sac in which bile rests quietly most of the 24 hours, until bile is needed in fat digestion and then the gallbladder empties, or allows the bile to escape into the intestine. The bile contains a solution of substances which can crystallize and form stones.

This does not happen unless there is a central foreign body around which to crystallize. The nucleus of the gallstone is usually a conglomeration of bacteria or mucous of degenerated cells, the products of inflammation. Since all the blood from the intestines goes to the liver first, in the course of 40 years a good deal of this blood must contain bacteria. This lodges in the gallbladder and forms the nucleus for, first, inflammation and, second, gallstone formation. Q. E. D.—many people over 40 have gallstones.

Treatment of Gallstones

The treatment of gallstones would seem to be a fairly obvious matter. We can detect them with a very high degree of accuracy and frequency. The dye test with the X-ray is very dependable. So we are able to tell they are there. Surgery has reached such a state of perfection that gallstones can be removed completely and finally with a minimum of risk. They cannot be dissolved by any medicines taken by mouth, or in the veins. Surgery is the only way.

But human nature being what it is, and Nature in general being what it is, everybody who has them does not necessarily run to have them hacked out on the slightest provocation. For one reason many of them are silent and give no trouble. For another, even if a stone should flare up occasionally and go on the rampage, medical treatment can control them pretty well and keep a fellow reasonably comfortable for years. For the final reason only a very small proportion of the population really yearns for surgical operations. To say the least they do not conduce to saving money or freedom from discomfort. And I may say I am quite sympathetic to that attitude. I am not at all hardboiled towards people who are trying to avoid surgery.

One may reasonably ask however, whether the patient is running any grave risk if he elects to keep his gallstones a while and give up his surgeon. This is especially pertinent now that hospital facilities are so taxed and patients should consider whether their complaints are sufficiently serious to warrant their occupying a hospital room.

A Boston surgeon, Dr. Brazier, has reviewed his experiences with his gallstone patients with these questions in mind. He found that a consecutive series of about 250 patients had had gallstones for over five years. About three-fifths had no complications and seemed in quite good health. Two-fifths of his patients had developed complications more or less serious. The duration of harboring gallstones in this group was about seven years.

Of course the occurrence of complications—jaundice, intractable indigestion, prostrating attacks of colic—should call for operation, in spite of all objections. This remark concludes, however, "Operation may safely be deferred in patients with gallstones so long as there are no complications and provided the postponement does not impair the patient's resistance."

Woos Secret Societies

CLEVELAND HEIGHTS—In an effort to discourage the alleged "illegality" of fraternities and sororities, the Cleveland Heights School Board is trying to induce the so-called secret societies to hold their meetings at school.

The School board said that "handsomely decorated" quarters will be provided for the clubs and is ordering the construction of a "portable soda bar."

The board said, however, that the social calendar of the sororities and fraternities must fit in with school activities, that no student be pledged until he reaches the sophomore class, and that there shall be "no objectionable dress or wild acts in initiation."

BATON ROUGE, La.—Bothered by the nocturnal antics of stray dogs who came to visit Shaggyville, the WAC mascot, the commanding officer of the Harding WAC detachment, last week fired three-day passes to watch any of the unwelcome guests. After the week was out, three WACs came proudly tugging canine leashes and immediately were given 72-hour leaves plus badges insuring their appointment as official WAC dogcatchers.

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa.—Manpower shortages or no, college girls aren't likely to sign for the "good old days." Almost Threadbare County Seat

(By Associated Press)
DAKOTA CITY, Ia.—Business has come to a pretty impasse in Dakota City, county seat of Humboldt county, population about 400. With the war and everything, Dakota City now has no doctor, no undertaker, no minister, no church, no bank, no lawyer, no fire department, no beauty shop, no dentist, no plumber, no bakery, no hospital, no factories. But it still has its $178,000 courthouse. Across the Des Moines river is Humboldt, a city of 2,250 population.

FEARS HUNTERS MAY DESTROY ALL GAME

NEW YORK—Arthur Grahame, writing in the September issue of "Outdoor Life," fears that the invasion of woods and streams by 22,000,000 sportsmen after the war may annihilate fish and game.

Grahame bases his estimate on the 39 per cent increase in fishing and hunting licenses after the last war, due largely to increased interest of servicemen in guns and outdoor life.

The new army of sportsmen also will include millions of hunters and fishermen who have been unable to indulge in their favorite sports because of gasoline rationing.

Federal conservation agencies are making plans to meet this emergency, but Grahame points out Congressional approval is needed and state authorities must adopt additional conservation and restocking measures.

Cuts Off Carolinas

Japan has developed the islands as a powerful naval, air and sea base, but their defenses built under 25 years of Japanese supervision were badly shattered under an almost continuous nine-day American air bombardment. Surface ships shelled the islands repeatedly during this period, finally moving in for the fear-instilling barrage immediately preceding the invasion.

Air and shelling attacks were concentrated largely on Babelthup, largest of the Palau, and the three southernmost islands — Anguar, Pelelu and Negese bas.

Conquest of Palau will completely cut off the 2,000-mile long Caroline island chain, which has been bombed from end to end, and leave its large garrisons, including Truk, faced by the prospect of surrender as the only alternative to starvation and continued bombings. Palau was the Japanese headquarters for the mandated islands.

The day before the Palau invasion Halsey's powerful fleet, still unable to bring the reluctant Japanese navy to battle, wound up a crushing three day aerial assault by its carrier planes on the central Philippine islands of Ceru, Panay, Negros and Iloilo.

Adm. Nimitz announced late yesterday the planes "inflicted crippling damage to enemy air forces, shipping and ground installations."

Aircraft destroyed: 154 shot down in combat and 277 destroyed on the ground.

The volume of underground water in the earth has been estimated at nearly one-third the amount in the sea.

Tabernacle To Dedicate Its New Church Building Sunday

The new church building of the Lighthouse Tabernacle, pictured above, will be dedicated at 2:30 p. m. Sunday. The building will be open for public inspection preceding the program.

Rev. Fiem VanMeter of Akron will be principal speaker at the formal dedication program. Open house will be held at 1:30 when visitors may go through the three floors of the former store building which has been remodeled into a church.

The tabernacle will be known as the Assembly of God Tabernacle instead of Lighthouse Tabernacle under which name the church has functioned since its organization here eight years ago by Rev. Milton R. Searles, present pastor. Rev. Searles will make his home on the Chestnut Grove rd., near Salem.

The $6,000 remodeling of the former Tomlinson store building, at W. State st. and Howard, financed by the local congregation, included lowering and fitting of the basement as rest rooms, application of a new colonial brick front to the building, installation of Sunday school classrooms on the second floor, new electrical wiring and installation of fluorescent fixtures. Improvements in the interior construction has provided a floor area of 5040 square feet.

It proposes economic freedom and to abolish all policies that lead to regimentation, the freezing of wages and binding men to their jobs."

Dewey has not met the expectations of the betrayal of labor, the misleaders of labor, or the communists who dominate the CIO and the political actionites."

doubts expressed in some quarters in the United States whether England will "go all out" in helping Uncle Sam defeat Japan. London's concern over such speculation has been indicated by the fact that Churchill himself has taken the pains to say that Britain will be in the war against Japan "up to the hilt to the finish."

Foreign Secretary Eden has more than once made a similar commitment.

There are mountainous reasons why England must play her full part. Eden summed the thing up well a few days ago when he said in a speech:

"We have scores of our own to settle with the Japanese. They have overrun vast territories which formed part of the British commonwealth and empire and we are determined, as with Germany, to see that our victory is utterly complete."

BRICKER TO SPEAK IN WEST VIRGINIA

Continues Campaign For Vice Presidency After Talk In Ohio

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Sept. 15. — Gov. John W. Bricker carried his campaign for the vice presidency into neighboring West Virginia today after a speech here in which he accused the New Deal of embracing Nazi doctrines.

Bricker, speaking last night before the Ohio Republican convention, declared "the New Deal has adopted the basic doctrines of Nazism and Fascism against which we have sent our sons into mortal combat."

"The New Deal," he added, "would control, direct and manage the economic and political lives of all our people. It would tell a man where to work, when to work, for whom to work and would fix his pay. It would tell industry what to produce and to whom to sell, how much to produce and would fix its prices."

For 12 years, he told the convention delegates, they had observed the application of a pattern by which the New Deal "would destroy state and local governments by making them financially dependent upon a centralized government of unlimited power."

These developments, Bricker asserted, provide the "great, all-pervading issue" before the American people in the Nov. 7 election.

He pictured the issue not as a conflict between the historic Democratic and Republican parties, but "between New Deal collectivism and the fundamentals of Americanism to which Democrats and Republicans each hold allegiance."

REPUBLICANS BID FOR OHIO REIGNS

Seek Another Two Years For Having "Kept Faith With the People"

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, Sept. 15.—The Ohio Republican bid today for another two years as steward of the state government on a platform reciting how it has "kept faith with the people" in the last six years.

To a record of "good government" the party's state convention added promises that the $90,000,000 state surplus would be spent only for permanent improvements and that tax reductions would be effected in such amount as will not jeopardize a balanced budget.

The 2,000-word platform was adopted yesterday in a one-day session during which the 1,000 delegates wildly cheered Gov. John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for vice president, pledged support to him and Thomas E. Dewey, the presidential nominee and to the state and local party tickets.

Gov. Bricker Speaks
Bricker declared the issue in the Nov. 7 election was "between the New Deal collectivism and the fundamentals of Americanism to which Democrats and Republicans each hold allegiance." He also asserted the New Deal had "adopted the basic doctrines of Nazism and Fascism."

Mayor James G. Stewart of Cincinnati, candidate for governor, received heavy applause as he answered the Democrats' cry of "boosism" by declaring that "as governor I shall make my own decisions."

Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland, the Democratic candidate for governor, has said that Stewart is under the influence of Ed D. Schorr, Republican state chairman.

"I don't intend to give up my friends," Stewart shouted. "I wouldn't give them up for any office in the gift of the people."

On the program were Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert and Albert E. Payne, Springfield manufacturer, all of whom ran against Stewart in the primary race for governor.

U. S. Senators Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati, who is up for reelection and Harold H. Burton of Cleveland joined Gov. Bricker in assailing the New Deal politics as a threat to American constitutional liberties.

GERMANS ATTACK FINNISH ISLAND

(By Associated Press) STOCKHOLM, Sept. 15.—The Finns announced today that the Germans, their former partners in arms on the eastern front, attacked the Finnish island of Hogland during the night after a surrender ultimatum was flatly rejected.

A Finnish communiqué said the assaults were repelled "except at one point, where the mopping up of the weak German bridgehead is continuing."

The German attack was the first outbreak of hostilities between the Nazis and Finns since the Finns broke diplomatic relations with Germany Sept. 8 and ordered the Germans to quit Finland by Sept. 15.

The garrisoned island, also known as Suursaari, is in the Finnish gulf. It is important as a control point for German attempts to blockade the Russian Baltic fleet. The island also has protected the northern flank of German forces trapped by the Russians in Estonia and Latvia.

The Finnish communiqué said the attacks were launched by German naval forces and that nine German ships were reported either sunk or set afire.

Two Ohioans Hurt In Indiana Train Crash

(By Associated Press) TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 15.—The toll of deaths in the head-on collision of two trains north of here early yesterday was 28 today with the death in a hospital here of T. Sgt. Edward C. Gillan, Dixon, Ill.

Sgt. Gillan's death increased to 25 the number of servicemen, all of them Air Force veterans, who died in the wreck of the 14-coach Chicago and Eastern Illinois Dixie Flyer and an express and mail train. Three crewmen of the flyer were killed, and about 25 other trainmen and civilians were injured.

The soldiers, who had completed up to 50 missions in overseas combat, were enroute to a redistribution center in Florida after completing 30-day furloughs.

Two Ohioans were among those injured. Listed by Fort Benjamin Harrison public relations officers, they were T. Sgt. Maywood Carpenter of Sumnerfield, (Noble county) and T. Sgt. Laurence B. Custer of Lima.

Pigeon Establishes Near Record In Night Flight

POPE FIELD, N. C.—"Pathfinder," the champion of the 136th Signal Pigeon Co. has established what headquarters here believe to be a world record for flying in almost total darkness.

Released in Charleston, S. C., on a very cloudy night, the bird arrived here six hours and 23 minutes later, making the distance of 177 air miles at an average of 814 yards per minute.

Found D-Day Plans

SGT. MAJ. EMILE COUTURE, above, a French Canadian whose job it was to issue stationery at last year's Quebec conference of Churchill and Roosevelt, shared for months the super-secret of the war—the plans for the invasion of Normandy, military authorities just revealed. While collecting unused paper, Couture found a memorandum in a wastebasket outlining the complete invasion plans. He immediately took it to Canadian Army headquarters and was then secretly transported with an officer to Washington where they turned over the papers and took a solemn oath of secrecy. For his scrupulous observance of the oath, Sgt. Maj. Couture received the Medal of the British Empire. (International)

UNCLE CONFESSES FATAL BEATING OF COLUMBUS INFANT

Faces Life Imprisonment If Convicted: Lie Detector Used

COLUMBUS, Sept. 15.—Harry H. Heron, 23, was held in city prison today after he confessed beating and fatally injuring his 21-month-old niece, Ardella May Brobst, Detective Chief Leo Phillips announced.

The little girl died Monday afternoon, and an autopsy revealed death was caused by a ruptured liver and a brain hemorrhage.

Coroner John B. Gravis called the death a homicide, informing police it was his opinion the injuries had been inflicted by an adult.

For three days police had grilled Heron and his wife, Patricia, and had talked with the girl's mother, Mrs. Flora Brobst, who was working in a war plant when the child's injuries were noted by her aunt.

She came home, she told police, when informed by Mrs. Heron the girl was ill, and took her to the hospital, where the infant was pronounced dead.

Hits Child With Shoe
Phillips said Heron confessed after he had submitted to a lie detector test.

He told police Ardella May had cried all Sunday night, and had kept him awake. He was in the kitchen the following morning he said, when she came and stood in the doorway, still whimpering.

Grabbing a shoe, he hurled it at the little girl, striking her in the stomach, Phillips said Heron related, adding that the uncle said he then spanked her sharply.

Police today planned to question again Mrs. Heron, who had said she found the little girl in the back yard apparently the victim of an accident. She said she had returned her to bed, fed her and had expected her to recover.

The Brobst and Heron families live in the same house. The dead girl's father, Dorwin Brobst, is a private in the army and was stationed at Camp Campbell, Ky.

Phillips said he would file second degree murder charges against Heron today. Maximum penalty under the charge is life imprisonment.

(By Associated Press) MERCER, Pa., Sept. 15.—Once again, a crowded courtroom heard stocky William Morell tell that he confessed to killing three persons on a farm last Oct. 7 to shield Janice Graham because "I thought I loved her."

A commonwealth witness at the blonde girl's trial on murder charges growing out of the triple slayings, Morell yesterday reiterated a repudiation of a confession he allegedly made to state police after he and Janice were arrested in Ohio the day after the murder.

The 21-year-old farmhand was acquitted at a trial last December of charges in the deaths of Mrs. Catherine Wilson, 78, and Robert McKay, 71, but was convicted of manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Helen Wilson, 43.

Morell, in direct examination by Prosecuting Attorney Dohovan Henry, testified that he purchased a watch for Miss Graham a week before the tragedy and several days later made a down payment on an engagement ring.

NEBRASKA ARSENAL ROCKED BY BLAST

(By Associated Press) HASTINGS, Neb., Sept. 15.—The second explosion within six months at the Hastings naval ordnance depot rocked Hastings and surrounding communities this morning.

An enormous cloud of smoke billowed up from the ordnance plant area about nine miles from Hastings. Windows all along Hastings' main street were knocked out by the blast.

Ambulances and fire department and police squads from Hastings went to the scene immediately.

The last explosion, April 6, left eight dead—three whose bodies were recovered and five missing and never found.

The April blast, in which 100,000 pounds of high explosives blew up, also injured 34 persons.

The depot, largest of Nebraska's four ordnance installations, covers 48,000 acres and is constructed so that an explosion in one unit will not detonate explosives in other areas.

Answers Court Summons And Receives Two More

SEDALIA, Mo.—It was hard-luck day for Emmett Sullivan, former Sedalia alderman.

He found a summons on his car to report to the federal court to explain why there was no use-tax stamp on his windshield. He took the stamp, which he carried in his wallet, and told officials it had washed off the windshield.

While he was in the federal building, another agent stuck a second summons on his car. He went back to get that straightened out.

WAR HAS FORCED DRUG ADDICTS TO CURE THEMSELVES

(By United Press)
ST. LOUIS, Mo.—The war with Japan has virtually halted the smuggling of opium into the United States and forced thousands of narcotic addicts to take the cure — whether they want to or not.
John M. Tulley, head of the St. Louis bureau of the Treasury department's narcotic division, revealed today that wartime conditions have greatly reduced the number of drug addicts because of their inability to obtain contraband drugs. He predicted that if the war with Japan continues another year, drug addiction in the United States may be completely wiped out.
Tulley reported that there are less than 50 of what he called "non-medical users of narcotic drugs" in the eastern federal district of Missouri as compared to more than 800 in 1941 before the Pearl Harbor attack.
Importation of opium, the basic property of practically all habit-forming drugs, Tulley explained, "is so restricted today that the supply is barely adequate to meet the demand for legitimate users of drugs."

Strict Supervision
"There are only three firms in the United States that process opium and the Treasury Department is able to keep the strictest supervision over the distribution of opium drugs from these manufacturers through retail sources to the ultimate consumer.
"The great amount of narcotics used by the addict was smuggled into the country and was not processed by these three firms. It was this contraband supply that kept the government busy in pre-war days.
Tulley added that the few addicts who have not taken involuntary cures are being driven to extremes to get habit-forming drugs and "our department is rapidly closing in on their source of supply."

"This condition does not apply only to the eastern district of Missouri," Tulley said, "but is nationwide. Within another year, if the war with Japan lasts that long, we should have the traffic stamped out entirely with only a few cases here and there where someone, able to get drugs legitimately, misuses that privilege."
The druggist who sells paregoric, timeworn soothe of crying babies, is the narcotic agent's big problem today, Tulley declared. He explained how addicts buy paregoric in varying quantities in several stores, burn it to remove the alcohol and freeze it to eliminate the camphor.
"The residuum," Tulley said, "is then thawed out and injected by use of a hypodermic syringe or needle temporarily satisfying the addict's craving for the drug."

Sentry Orders "Halt", But Bull Keeps Coming

CAMP CARBON, Colo.—Sentry duty can sometimes result in a fellow gaining some impromptu knowledge. At least that's the opinion of Corp. Paul Tracy of San Pedro, Calif.
Tracy was on night patrol recently when he saw a shadow. He shouted at the shadow to halt, and when there was no answer, advanced to claim his "prisoner."
The "prisoner" turned out to be an angry, full-grown bull, and Corp. Tracy did a quick job of climbing a nearby tree.

AUSTRALIAN WIFE LIKES SHEER HOSE

ALEXANDRIA, La.—The first Australian wife of an American soldier to live in this section is Mrs. Carl Henson, formerly of Melbourne.
She likes America particularly because of the length of the skirts, the added make-up and the wonderful stockings. "I haven't seen such sheer hose in years."
Mrs. Henson is here with her year-old daughter to be near her husband, who is a sergeant stationed at Eder field. She first met her husband while riding horseback on her father's farm near Melbourne.
Three months later she had broken her engagement with her Australian fiancé and had married Henson.

WORLD'S DEEPEST HOLE IS SUNK IN TEXAS OIL REGION

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
NEW YORK—The world's deepest hole, 15,279 ft. (almost three miles), an oil well near Fort Stockton, Tex., has just been completed after several years' work.
Down there it is hot, 240 degrees Fahrenheit. The pressure on the oil at the bottom is 2,800 pounds a square inch, which is about 200 times the weight of the air at earth's surface.
At that depth rocks become brittle. It doesn't take much of a blow to cause them to snap.
This well is 20 inches in diameter at the top and 7 1/2 inches at the bottom. It brings the oil up in a five-inch pipe.
After the well was sunk, and the steel pipe lowered a thousand sacks of cement was placed, by pumping, around the lower end of the pipe to seal it firmly into the surrounding sand, which is really rock, except for the technical name due to the porosity.
Finally, a 30-foot long gun was lowered down to 15,258 feet. This gun was studded on all sides with small openings filled with steel jacketed cartridges. An electrical connection discharged them, to penetrate both the pipe, the concrete around it and 15 to 20 feet back into the oil sands. Oil enters the well through these holes.

Tickles Wife, Disturbs
Peace, Is Sent To Jail
FORT SMITH, Ark.—It cost Bill Kelton $109 and three months in jail to tickle his wife.
Kelton was convicted in Fort Smith municipal court on charges of disturbing the peace after complainants testified they were aroused at dawn recently by outcries from Mrs. Kelton as she raced down the street from her home—her husband in close pursuit.
Kelton testified he had started tickling his wife, and that she ran away to "dodge out of the tickling." His wife verified his statement.

Another would require that customs duties imposed on merchandise imported into the United States be based on this nation's value for the product. The other two measures would set up a quota system for glass articles imported into this country and for earthenware, crockeryware, china, porcelain and other vitreous wares. THE REST OF MY LIFE WITH YOU

by Faith Baldwin

CHAPTER THIRTY

Ella was right, and all his assurances could not shake her. But she kept insisting, "You can be married right here. I'm sorry Judith can't have a church wedding but she won't mind too much." So, in the autumn, in a hotel bedroom they were married. Lynn was best man and Eva Lambert gave her daughter in marriage. There was an improvised altar by the fireplace and an old fine-featured clergyman, and autumn leaves in great jars. No flowers except the little bouquet which Judith carried. She wore white, and a tulle cape veiled in lace. Her eyes were bluer than the flawless October skies and her small face as white as her gown.

"There," said Matthew to Ella, after it was over and the kissing had begun. "I hope you're satisfied."

"Very. It was a lovely wedding," declared Ella, "but I regret I skipped you out of a thousand presents and a dozen bridesmaids."

Judith sat, sitting on the edge of the bed. "I have all the presents I want," she smiled.

These included a most substantial check from Ella, with which to furnish the apartment they had taken, not too far from the office; a check from Mary, and her own engagement ring, the diamond reset for Judith; a check from Lynn, for the wedding trip. And, from Eva, her pearls, all she had kept from the disaster.

There were gifts from friends, from Sam and Hilda, Bill and Barbara, and others of Matthew's associates, and from Judith's, too. From the luckless Dan a chaste silver bowl, and from the equally unfortunate Mr. Treadway a very characteristic gift, his favorite polo pony sculptured in bronze.

These, and other things, awaited them at the apartment which Mary was to put in order while they were at Hot Springs. Matthew had given himself a two weeks' holiday. That much time he could afford, and no more.

Two weeks. A mellow southern sun, smoky blue mountains, blue skies, trees. . . .

Once in the starlit night he said to her, softly, "I didn't know there was a woman like you."

Judith put her head against his shoulder. She murmured, "It frightens me."

"What?"

"This—much loving. Matthew, is it true men tire of women who love them too much? I mean, shouldn't one withhold a little, never give everything, not quite?"

He laughed. "What a child you are!"

She was a child, lovely and ardent, her ardent burning in her like a clean, upspringing flame. It was innocent, a wild, magical wonder, and Matthew was moved by it to a greater tenderness than he had ever known.

"Always love me," he demanded, "like this. Always."

"How could I stop?" Judith asked in the utmost amazement.

Two weeks and then they were driving back to New York. At their last stop, Eva telephoned them. They had wired ahead, giving their itinerary, in case Matthew might be needed. He was needed now, they both were. For Ella was gravely ill.

They reached New York just in time. Ella opened her heavy eyes, smiled at them and tried to say something. The specialist moved under her breath and then—it was over.

Judith stayed in the hotel with her mother, and Matthew went, finally, to the new apartment alone. There were a number of adjustments to be made. Before he left the hotel that night his bride spoke to him, "We'll ask mother to live with us, of course."

Matthew answered, "Of course," a little too quickly, and she looked at him, startled. It had seemed so obvious. Ella, with Ella gone, had no one. She was not the sort of woman who could make a new life for herself, and live alone, as Mary had done. But Mary hadn't lived alone really; most of the time she had had Matthew.

Standing there in the living room of the suite, Judith moved close to her husband, touched his arm and asked, "You mind, don't you?"

"Of course not," he replied immediately, and bent to kiss her. "You look all in," he added. "Darling, do try to get some sleep."

But she shook her head impatiently. "If you really mind, it won't work out at all."

"But I don't. Naturally she must live with us," he said, perfectly aware that the prospect filled him with the utmost reluctance.

Matthew wanted Judith all for himself. He wanted to come home to her and to her only. He liked Eva Lambert, she was a sweet little person. Rather colorless, perhaps, always a little overshadowed by the memory of her personal tragedy and by the overpowering personality of her sister. She would efface herself and that in itself would be irritating. You hated to think that she would deliberately efface herself because of you.

He kissed Judith again and whispered, "Everything will work out."

Mary was there, as she had been when Matthew and Judith arrived. She had taken a room next to the suite and now she was in Ella's room, giving her the sleeping medicine Matthew had prescribed, talking to her quietly, in her controlled, firm way.

When Judith came in, Mary asked, "Matthew gone?"

"He went home," said Judith and sat down limply in a big chair as if her knees would no longer obey her.

Her mother spoke faintly, looking very small in the bed. "I'm so sorry that he had to go home—alone."

"That's all right, darling," Judith told her.

The slow tears rolled down Ella's face. She said, "I'll miss Ella, so much."

"Of course. We all will. Try to sleep. I'm going to sleep in here with you," Judith said.

A little later Mary beckoned her daughter-in-law and the went quietly from the room.

"I'm sorry," began Mary gently, "that you have had such an unhappy ending to your honeymoon."

Judith smiled, a little. She said valiantly, "It isn't ended, it never will be." She added presently, "I'm so glad we were in time. Mary—"

They had agreed previously on the use of "Mary" instead of "Mother" in mentioning Mrs. Mary Norman.

"I spoke to Matthew tonight, about asking my mother to come live with us. There's plenty of room you know."

"What did he say?"

"He said, of course—" Judith's blue eyes were direct and unswerving—"but I'm sure he doesn't like the idea."

Mary said, after a moment, "Well, it's natural. He wants to be alone with you Judith. But he will adjust himself."

Judith shook her head. "He doesn't adjust easily."

"Have you discovered that — in just two weeks?"

"No. I've known it always, since I was a child. I don't want him to be—unhappy, but . . . I can't bear to have Mother alone."

Mary suggested, after a brief silence, "Perhaps she would live with me."

"Nonsense!" declared Judith vigorously, "and completely upset your life? I won't have it!"

"Life," remarked Mary mildly, "has to go on. Judith. Don't worry about the future too much. Things will arrange themselves."

Ella had the sort of impressive funeral she would have loved. And things did arrange themselves; or rather, Ella arranged them. When her will was read it was found that she had left a life interest in a very large sum to her sister "who," she had indicated, "has been dependent upon me for some years without complaint although I must have tried her very soul upon innumerable occasions. Now she is to be dependent upon no one."

Ella left generous bequests to charity, her maid, and other servants, as well as her lawyer, and to Matthew she had willed twenty-five thousand dollars, "in affection," and to Mary an equal sum, "call it," the will read, "the key to a sabbatical year."

Everything else, all of which she was possessed, was left to Judith. (To be continued)

"Going My Way," newest Bing Crosby hit, today begins a five-day showing at the State theater. The film which has set attendance and box office records wherever it has been shown, gives leading roles to the singer, Barry Fitzgerald, Rise Stevens, James Brown and Jean Heather.

In the role of a young priest who is assigned a run-down parish in a tenement district, Crosby has the best role of his entire film career and does his finest work yet. Fitzgerald, as the old priest whose unprogressive ways are a constant trial to the new pastor, turns in a performance which may win him this year's Academy award. Rise Stevens plays the part of famous operatic star and childhood friend of the young priest while James Brown

Salem-Sebring Clash Is One Of Seven Openers In District

Football For 1944 Slated For Big "First Night" All Over Ohio; Interest Climbs

Seven grid contests, one involving the Salem High school Quakers and the Sebring Trojans at Kelly stadium at 7:45 p. m., will officially open the 1944 football season in the district tonight.

With both Salem and Sebring eleven rated as the best to represent their schools in many years, a revealing battle is expected. A heavy Sebring squad, pitted against an experienced and reserve-stocked Salem aggregation, will be out to pin the ears of the Quakers back for the first time in many a day.

Both squads went through light practice sessions yesterday, the Quakers spending most of the time before cameras and running through plays.

Coach George Standen, Jr., ready for his first try at running a Sebring grid machine "under fire," said he expected his team to stay "within two or three touchdowns of the Salem team."

As things seem to happen at Kelly stadium tonight, 16 other district eleven will open their schedules.

Down on the river, East Liverpool entertains a new rival—the Kirtlandville Central Raiders—in their opener. Boasting seven returning players, including a complete return of backfield of Juniors, East Liverpool will have a definite experience edge on the Irish, who claim only three veterans among their starting group.

Leetonia meets East Palestine in a better county rivalry under the Bulldogs light in another "experience vs. newcomers" battle. The chance of J. L. McBride number seven to lead Salem while East Palestine has six letter winners, only three of whom played regularly last season.

Youngstown South, powerful Mahoning county aggregation, travels to Girard, a new team on Salem's schedule this year, for an eye-opener. Both teams are looking for brighter returns this year and both coaches, Al Betch of South and O. C. Baumgartner of Girard, expect to field improved squads.

Alliance, grade-school children and younger than usual, will start a friendly tough schedule against Wooster Generals under the electric at Mount Union's field. By far the weakest Alliance team to take the field in a decade, the aviators will be bidding for what may be their only "breather" this year.

Wellsville, operating under the guidance of Wally Ingalls for the initial try, will face a strong Sciencetown aggregation at Nicholson field in Wellsville. Ingalls is not over-optimistic about his team's chances, but says a "fair" season can be expected.

Struthers, happily burdened with lots of weight and a good deal of experience, will take a chance at the first one against Lowellville. Lowellville, a considerably smaller school than Struthers, looks as an easy try for Roy Hodge's charges.

Other schools throughout the state are opening their seasons. Other today or tomorrow and the general report shows a "come-up" interest in scholastic competition this year.

Frederick Salem High school faculty manager, said today he is expecting one of the largest opening game crowds in years.

Both Trout and Newhouse will be bidding for their 25th triumph of the season.

Carlson-Deming Team Wins Title

Harry Carlow and Walt Deming finally edged John Mulford, Jr. and Loren Early out of the Salem County club doubles tennis championship after the match had gone five sets. Mulford and Early were champions last year in their respective brackets.

Chloro-trunk results saw Walt Deming take Mulford in the under singles matches for the title. Deming won two straight sets, 6-4 and 6-2.

Leading the boys singles field was diminutive Frank Carlson, who conquered all comers for his class championship. A match for the boys doubles title is still undecided, with finalists Rudy Marschert and Howard Harington leading Jack Ellis and Jerry Miller.

Cleveland, Detroit Meet At Lake Front

(By Associated Press) CLEVELAND, Sept. 15.—The Detroit Tigers clash with the Cleveland Indians in a twilight-night double header in Cleveland stadium tonight and a double victory for the Bengals will put them in first place, half a game ahead of the New York Yankees.

Manager Steve O'Neill will send his two aces, Paul (Dizzy) Trout and Hal Newhouse, against the Tribe. Manager Lou Boudreau will counter with Steve Gromek and either Ed Egan or Mel Harder.

Both Trout and Newhouse will be bidding for their 25th triumph of the season.

'Parents Night' Observance Of Grid Team Successful

Emphasizing the value and importance of keeping training hours and rules during football season, Coach Ben Barrett last night spoke to approximately 100 parents, team members and booster club members at the first "Parents Night" ever held for a Salem football team.

Although booster club officials expressed regret that a larger turnout wasn't a reality, the meeting was termed as "highly successful" by those parents and boosters who were present.

Barrett, in talking with the parents and team, said that a boy in training for football must obey training regulations that ask him to be in the house at 10 p. m. each day. He pointed out that his good physical condition and safety depends on that schedule.

"Injuries are generally very minor in football, but if a boy doesn't follow training rules when he is not under our supervision, he is much more liable to injury," Barrett said. He added that a boy wasn't getting away with a thing when he broke training, he is just hurting himself, possible seriously.

Equipment shown

To emphasize the care and protection given all Salem football boys, Barrett had two players, Walt Brian and John Flegge, demonstrate to the audience just how much equipment a football player has to assemble on himself before he is ready for battle. Each piece of the uniform was carefully shown and explained to the spectators and Fred Cope, faculty manager, priced each item as it was shown.

After the boys were completely dressed, including rain and warm up jackets, Cope revealed that approximately $76 is spent on game uniforms alone. In addition to this, he said, each player has a complete practice outfit, costing equally as much.

The turnout this year is the largest ever recorded in Salem high school and Barrett said that even though many of the boys would never make the team, he wants to keep them out.

"If they're not playing football here," he said, "they'll be out someplace playing without equipment and without proper supervision. Football is a rough game and it's a lot safer if you are playing with good equipment and good supervision."

Frank J. Tarr and Robert J. Miller, two new members of the High school athletic staff spoke briefly and praised the friendly spirit and wholesome cooperation they have found in Salem. Miller is to be head basketball coach and will assist in football. Tarr is Barrett's assistant with the Junior Varsity.

Joe Kelley, president of the Boosters club and assistant to Barrett, acted as toastmaster and introduced guests and club officials. Art Brian, club secretary and treasurer, outlined the organization's program and purpose and made a financial report.

George Baillie, board of education member and head of the High school athletic board, was introduced along with Principal Reman Ludwig of the High school.

Refreshments were served.

Utah's worst football season in history hasn't discouraged Coach Ike Armstrong a bit. He's coming back with a squad of four or five lettermen and 30 to 40 freshmen, and says his Utes won't be quite so easy as last year when they lost seven without a victory.

Federal League Bowlers Begin Winter Card Friday

Federal league bowlers will begin their 1944-45 campaigns at the Masonic temple alleys at 7 p. m. Friday.

Electing officers for the new season, the bowlers met last night and made organization plans for the winter season. President is Emmor Taylor, vice president, Andy Ellis and secretary-treasurer, Edwin Probert.

Tight teams, Sanitary Foremen, Sanitary Shop, Gondas, Shells, Knights of Columbus, Eagles No. 3 and 4 and the Pennys, will make up the league this year.

Football Broadcasts

Opening football broadcasts of the season make up the principal midweek fare of all networks Saturday. Two games will be distributed among four of them, with three doing the same one. Here's the schedule:

NBC and BLU 1:45 p. m. (EWT) and CBS 2-Michigan vs Iowa Pre-Flight from Ann Arbor.

MBS 2:45 (EWT)—Great Lakes vs Ft. Sheridan from Great Lakes, Ill.

The announcing crew will be made up of veterans, Bill Stern for NBC, Ted Husing for CBS, Harry Wiener for the BLU and Russ Hodges for MBS.

LEETONIANS HAVE EDGE IN INITIAL E. PALESTINE GAME

Open Under Bulldog Lights Tonight With 16 Vets On Squad

Leetonia's fighting grid aggregation, 16 lettermen strong, takes the field tonight at East Palestine to face Coach John Reid's Bulldogs product, made up of six lettermen and five inexperienced recruits who have been showing up favorably in practice.

Coach J. L. McBride, beginning his third year as mentor, is well stocked with reserve lettermen and has 11 veterans to initiate in the first 1944 contest.

Jimmy Stewart and Pat Mancuso are expected to fill the starting line. Dave Deibel and Jack White will be at tackle, Joe Bernard, captain and three-year man, will be in the center spot to round out the line.

Power In Backs

In the Leetonia backfield, McBride will have either Guy Belmont or Dale Kingen-Smith at quarterback. Ed Dove at left half, Fred Dominic at right half and Guy Dominic in the fullback spot.

From early scrimmaging indications the Leetonia line will be rated to repeat their 1943 victory over East Palestine, unless the new Bulldogs mentor unwork more power than is expected from his protégés.

A scrimmage Tuesday against the Sebring High Trojans gave Leetonia fans an idea of the power contained in the high-scoring McBride machine. Although a score for the game wasn't tallied and regulation periods weren't observed, the Leetonia piled up five or six touchdowns and held the Trojans without first downs in nearly 40 minutes of scrimmage.

Women's League Meeting Completes Organization

Adrian's Women's league, bowling at the Bowling Center again this season with 14 teams participating, will begin operations at 6:45 p. m. a week from today, it was decided at a meeting of the team captains Wednesday night.

Schedules will appear in the regular bowling slate early next week, officials said.

Teams this year include, Coys, Haldi, Endres and Gross, Salem Concrete, Eagles No. 2, Finneys, Bowling Center, Damascus Lumber, Electric Furnace, Hamells, Demings, Marvellettes, Moose auxiliary, Loyal Order of Moose and Salem Engineering.

AUSTIN, Tex.—H. C. (Bully) Gilstrap is back at his old job of teaching basketball at the University of Texas, footballer how to play in the line but only a few weeks ago he was stacking holes of hay into the barn around Austin.

Bully each summer heads a hay baling crew that covers a lot of territory. He's been at it for 20 years.

BALTIMORE — The majority of stables that raced at Garden State Park shipped to Maryland tracks.

Paul Brown Says His New Job Will Offer Experience

(By Associated Press) AKRON, Sept. 15.—Lt. Paul Brown, former Ohio State coach recently appointed Great Lakes football mentor, believes the blue jackets' "big problem is Purdue next week."

In a letter to Jim Schlemmer, sports writer of the Akron Beacon Journal, Lt. Brown said he would use "everything we can get ready after a fashion" for the season opener with Fort Sheridan.

"They are a poor team," the letter continued, "Our big problem is with Purdue next week. We use no pros, nor men who have played football here before. We are about a college freshman team—plus Jim Mello of Notre Dame is our main man player."

"We have several from Akron: Ars Paraghegan, our No. 2 fullback, from (Akron) South High; Bob Schree, our No. 3 left and Chet Moore, our No. 3 left guard, from Cuyahoga Falls and Akron University, respectively. Our No. 1 center is Curmen Izzo from Western Reserve university, former second string blocking back there. Three Ohio State boys are with us: Ernie Pank, our No. 1 right end, was 1943 second string end for the Bucks; Jim Bess, our No. 1 left tackle, was second string in 1942 and George Spencer, our No. 2 quarterback, was the quarterback for Bexley High school last fall."

Commenting on the change from Ohio State football, the former Marion High school coach said "The whole thing is providing me with football experience. I hope to profit. I'm doing a lot of things in football that I've never done before and it will be interesting."

WASHINGTON—Invitations have been sent to 10 American republics to participate in the third annual Pan-American tennis tournament scheduled for October in Mexico City.

The Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs lists the countries as Cuba, Ecuador, Argentina, Bolivia, Venezuela, Peru, Chile, Costa Rica, Guatemala and Mexico.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Prexy Ed Barrow of the Yankees is threatening to introduce legislation which could forbid major league baseball clubs to lease their parks for football before the end of the season.

That's contrary to the Branch Rickey-Phil Wrigley theory of supplying year-round activity for ball parks, but it helps bring out a set that pro football is old enough to control its own fields.

The all parks, except maybe the Polo grounds and Cleveland Stadium, aren't suited to football.

There's been talk of building a new stadium in Philadelphia and Washington and one story has it that the national Football league delayed warding a Los Angeles franchise because Bing Crosby plans to build a plant for a team there after the war.

So if the baseball clubs put down, maybe the footballers will build their own—and lease the stadiums to colleges for Saturday afternoons.

PORTS POURRI

Frank Sinkwich and his dad had opened a very nifty wet dog dog emporium on the main drag of Youngstown, Ohio.

Norman Wiener, Kentucky U. quarterback, was hauled into court for yelling too loud while employed as a barker at Coney Island. Wonder what will happen when Wiener goes into a huddle with Halfback Herb Thomas, who is 4-F because of deafness.

TIME TO ATTIRE

Opening fall grid practice at the University, Coach Frank Murphy told his athletes to report on the field at 5 p. m.

The time arrived and only Murray and his assistants were present.

After long wait, he went into the locker room to investigate.

"We had many new boys who never had used heavy equipment," he explained later, "that all the veterans are busy showing them how to wear their pads."

ANN ARBOR—Michigan opened football practice with 51 candidates called back by Coach Fritz Crisler.

G-I BRUSHING UP — ON DOMESTIC LIFE

(By United Press)
 CALCUTTA, India—The patients in ward B-2 of the U. S. Army hospital had just finished their noon-day meal and were settling back for their afternoon nap.

The ward's nurse, First Lieut. Anne Burkey, was busy charting her patients' progress when above the clatter of dishes and silverware being washed in the hospital kitchen across the court, she heard the following:

"Yes, dear . . . no, dear . . . all right, dear . . . yes, dear."

She stepped in to investigate these words coming from the room that was usually occupied by a GI on kitchen police.

"Whom are you talking to, corporal?" she asked.

The soldier, working away at his duties of scrubbing trays and scraping away food residue, replied, "No, body, ma'am I was just practicing."
